Tucson Community

In a desert swirl of orange, black and white, the Tucson Buckets light up the ABA basketball scene. Beyond the court, they're community champions—mentoring kids, rallying for local causes, and infusing Tucson with hoops fever!

Since 2014

OUR MISSION

The Tucson Buckets aren't just about slam dunks and three-pointers—they're woven into the vibrant fabric of our community. Through youth clinics, school visits, and charity events, they inspire the next generation of ballers.

Whether it's mentoring aspiring players or rallying fans at local schools, the Buckets bring their A-game to community engagement. Their impact? A slam dunk for unity, resilience, and hometown pride.

Since 2014

Buckets History

- 1. Inception and Passion: The Tucson Buckets burst onto the scene as the newest expansion team in the American Basketball Association (ABA). Founded with a fervor for the game, they quickly became a symbol of community pride.
- 2. Player Spotlight: Jatai “Taigun” Gonder: Over the past three seasons, #9 Jatai Gonder has dazzled fans with his sharpshooting skills. His highlight reel showcases jaw-dropping three-pointers, slick assists, and a shooting percentage that defies gravity.
- 3. Thrilling Moments: Remember that heart-stopping game against the Phoenix Valley OUTLAWS? The Buckets pulled off a game-winning shot that echoed through the arena—a moment etched in ABA lore.
- 4. Community Engagement: Beyond the court, the Buckets engage with Tucson. They visit schools, mentor young players, and rally behind local causes. Their impact extends far beyond wins and losses.
- 5. Desert Legacy: Like the saguaro cacti standing tall, the Buckets aim to build a legacy. Victories become folklore, and their commitment to excellence echoes across the sun-kissed courts of Tucson.

TUCSON BUCKETS INTERNATIONAL SENIOR ADVISOR DR. CLYDE RIVERS

Dr. Clyde Rivers is a renowned advocate for civility and the founder of I Change Nations (ICN), an organization dedicated to promoting a culture of honor globally. He has been named the Special Director of Civility by the American Basketball Association (ABA). Dr. Rivers collaborates with the Tucson Buckets and Buckets for Civility to instill values of respect and dignity in the community through basketball. His efforts aim to create positive role models and foster a civil society, impacting lives both on and off the court.
